Former Boulderstone manager joins leading Australian internet project management company

A former manager with the diversified Boulderstone Group, one of the largest building and engineering companies in the country, has been appointed to a new Special Projects Team by leading Australian internet project management company, ProjectCentre.

Sydney-based ProjectCentre announced that Mr Thomas Patellis had joined the Company as a Senior Client Service Executive.

Over the past 12 years in the construction industry, including 7 years at Boulderstone, Mr Patellis has been instrumental in the implementation of collaboration systems in over 80 civil and building projects.

Mr Patellis is part of ProjectCentre's newly-created Special Projects Team, which has been established to further strengthen the Company's client-focussed philosophy.

The team is headed by Mr Anthony Esposito, and is designed to be ProjectCentre's centre of excellence of skilled industry professionals.

It will complement the Company's regionally-focused Client Service teams.

"Mr Patellis brings vast industry experience to ProjectCentre, including leading the collaboration team at Boulderstone's," ProjectCentre CEO, Mr Kevin Davis, said today.

"He has invaluable expertise in leading practice construction project delivery methods," he said.

"We are delighted to have someone of Thomas' professional acumen join our team and assist us support our delivery of thought-leadership and innovative solutions to our rapidly growing portfolio of clients."

Mr Davis said the Special Project Team's main objective would be to drive consistent client service and quality standards, consult with industry to provide commercially focused innovation in ProjectCentre's product offerings, and work closely with key national and international clients to provide market-leading implementations and account management.

"The goal is to support our clients, our regional teams, and our internal development to deliver the highest standards for both our products and our service and in-turn to achieve the highest level of client satisfaction," he said.

About ProjectCentre

ProjectCentre is the developer of a web-based collaborative project delivery system, which provides project management, document control, contract administration, financial and quality management solutions.

The Company delivers leading collaboration systems for the construction industry within Australia and New Zealand.

One of the advantages it holds over its competitors is that its system provides “live” reporting on every key decision and transaction made during the construction of any project – big or small.

Earlier this year, ProjectCentre was selected by the Defence Department as its preferred supplier of central management systems for all its major projects.

The Company is also supplying similar systems to both the New South Wales and Victorian governments for school projects being constructed in those states as part of the Federal Government’s Building Education Revolution (BER).

Last year ProjectCentre was named a BRW Fast 100 Company 2009 by influential business magazine, BRW.

The BRW Fast 100 ranked companies with up to 200 staff according to their average annual revenue growth over three years to June 30, 2009.

ProjectCentre’s revenue grew by 73% over the past three years ranking it as the 36th fastest growing company in Australia.
