ProjectCentre expands growing business operations into Western Australia

Leading national internet project management company, ProjectCentre, today announced it had expanded its business operations into Western Australia.

A leading provider of web-based collaborative project delivery systems for the international and national construction and mining infrastructure sectors, the Sydney-based company has appointed experienced construction industry executive, Ms Sara Feist, to head its new office in Perth.

ProjectCentre now has offices in Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, Perth, Brisbane and New Zealand.

In Western Australia, the Company is already supporting a number of notable major projects including the Perth Arena Project, the Collgar Wind Farm, Westrac's new facilities at South Guildford, and the Merredin Power Station.

"Western Australia is a key part of our strategic growth objectives, so we're delighted to announce the opening of our new office and appointment of Ms Feist in WA," ProjectCentre CEO, Mr Kevin Davis, said today.

"The state continues to go from strength the strength, and it is vital for us to have good people on the ground in Perth to closely service our clients' growing needs," he said

"Our vision is to provide a delivery platform to assist our Western Australian clients achieve their strategic goals of time, cost and quality management, for all stakeholders involved in their projects.

"Ms Feist has extensive construction industry experience, in both the residential and commercial sectors as well as having worked in the IT sector as a qualified trainer.

"She comes to ProjectCentre with strong product knowledge, having used our system to deliver the high-profile Perth Arena Project in her most recent role with WA construction and engineering company, BGC Construction."

Mr Davis said Ms Feist will support ProjectCentre's Regional Manager for WA and SA/NT, Mr Jake Kearsley.

Mr Kearsley joined ProjectCentre from global construction firm Sinclair Knight Merz, where he held senior roles in project delivery, strategic consulting and defence client management.
